FINE ART PRINT

A HELPING HAND by Byron Pace — The Scottish hill pony, otherwise known as a garron, has been used across Scotland for hundreds of years. Called upon during World War I to carry supplies to the front line, the strength and steadiness of the breed made them an essential element of the war effort. Today you will find them on the more traditional estates, helping to take deer off the hill in the most inaccessible of locations.

Printed on Hahnemühle Photo Rag, a 100% Cotton Paper using Archival Pigment inks. Available framed or unframed, 8x8, 11x4, and 16x20. See website for pricing.

SPORTING TRADITIONS MAP

Modern Huntsman and New World Cartography collaborated to create a map that would express many of the themes of Volume Five: Traditions; from fly fishing on the Gulf Coast of Texas to elk hunting in the American West and the beauty of handcrafted duck calls. In the way these stories describe an authentic tradition in the outdoors, this map was created as an original in an authentic process. Ink work was committed to paper to capture the state boundaries, paths of rivers and to show the detail of wood ducks and ruffed grouse. Watercolors were used as the final touch to bring the Volume Five: Traditions map to life.

Available as a giclee print (20x24), hand-colored print (33.5x24.75), or the single edition original (33.5x24.75).

TINGLEY

— est. 1896 —

It requires resilience and trust for a company to operate across three centuries.

Tingley Rubber began in 1896. Its first product was a bicycle tire plug developed by Charles O. Tingley, who rode his bike across the East Coast to both sell his product and prove its reliability. Five generations have since led the company through world wars, global economic depression, and changing consumer demand to meet the ever expanding needs of the modern worker.

While the Tingley that operates today is a far cry from what began 124 years ago, its dedication to the customer remains the same. Fishermen, foresters and ranchers don their protective footwear and clothing knowing that they are covered by decades of innovation and the best technology available.

Duke Cannon hails from a simpler time. A time when the term handyman was redundant. A time when chivalry and patriotism weren't considered old-fashioned. Duke Cannon's purpose is simple: to make superior-quality grooming goods that meet the high standards of hard-working folks.

Their products are tested by soldiers, not boy bands. And they're made in a little place we like to call the United States of America. They value things like hard work, family, community, bacon and country; they champion builders, creators, sledge hammerers, holders of doors and fixers of toilets; we have the utmost respect for teachers and farmers and soldiers and first responders—so it's no wonder good folks feel right at home in Duke Cannon Country.

For the creators of CHAMA, it all began with a desire to break away from the routine of daily life and reconnect with a part of themselves that can only be found outdoors.

This group of long-time friends shared a camaraderie built from spending time together in the pursuit of adventure. Whether they were dove hunting, sitting in a ground blind or duck blind, they constantly experienced the nagging, painstaking problem that most all hunters faced — not having a premium chair that was truly functional, silent, and fit into the entire span of their lifestyle. After an extensive search for this piece of gear, the founders decided to blaze a new trail and create completely new products from scratch.

VAQUERO CHAIR

The Vaquero Chair by CHAMA is a durable & lightweight design masterpiece. We set out to design and build an outdoor chair whose utility was relaxing, lounging, taking a load off. We needed this chair to be lightweight, durable, functional, easy to carry, and we wanted to incorporate wood and canvas. Paying homage to the historic campaign chairs of the early 1900s, we built the Vaquero Chair – an iconic piece for a life of rugged luxury. CHAMA's Vaquero chair is a wildly comfortable, folding, easy to travel with chair that will make a statement on the range or in the home office.

Maui Nui believes that striving to be in balance with nature supports abundance for all. By actively managing Hawaii's invasive Axis deer populations as a food resource, they hope to inspire more place-based solutions that focus on the health of our environment, and by extension, the health of the communities and systems that it sustains.

From strict land stewardship practices, to elaborate agricultural and field systems, innovation was built into every facet of ancient Hawaiian food systems. In line with that legacy, Maui Nui's goal has always been to help balance Hawaii's deer numbers and, through innovative wild-harvesting methods, to channel that work into incredible food. Their hope is that the value of that work can be felt across their pae'āina, across their communities, and beyond.

Duck Camp

What began as a frustration with the quality and construction of hunting clothing quickly evolved into the development of a brand that seeks to understand the modern outdoorsman.

We talk about Duck Camp, which is as much a place to go as it is a feeling. From the moment we put a kennel in the back of the truck, check the weather, or sort through last year's shells, a feeling grows around that time in the wild. And it isn't just the time in the field we crave; it's seeing family and friends. It's the first cold drink, it's the fire, it's the early start. It's the food, the dogs, the work. The cold, the rain, the wind, the retrieve. The stories, the laughs, the sounds that can only be heard in that special place. Duck Camp is devoted to creating premium outdoor gear that will withstand the test of time out in the field, in the duck blind, or out on the town.
